PREFACE

This revised and updated version of the Russell Strong index to the 306 Echoes 1975-2000 publication addresses formatting errors and incorporates corrections and legible annotations made to the original version of the index. In addition, the Pilot, Navigator, and Bombardier listings, which originally appeared in the January and October 1998 and July 1989 issues of Echoes and were then consolidated into the index, have been retyped for readability and reformatted for usability. Every attempt has been made to ensure the accuracy of names, dates, and ancillary information as it appears in the index; however, errors and omissions may occur. Please verify critical details.

The following is a key to understanding the citation references used in the index.

PREFACE

When Echoes began back in 1975, there was no thought given to it lasting for any great length of time – but it has! Now, in its 26th year, we are publishing this volume of those first 25 years with two purposes in mind: to preserve all of the copies in a bound volume, and to provide an index to some of those things you may want to read again.

We know that some of you have saved all or most of your copies, and if you have looked at some of these earlier issues, you have noticed how the paper has deteriorated. This book overcomes that. But additionally, we are providing a 26-page index, which will help you move around through the pages to those special items you may treasure.

In working on these pages in the final preparation of this book, we are constantly amazed at how much information there is. Much of this has to be attributed to you readers who have dug through your memories and have sorted through those collections of memorabilia to provide the editor with the raw material for the next issue of Echoes.

I've read many of the obits again, and my work slows to recall names that I knew during combat, names with which I have become familiar during reunions over this same period, and the hundreds of men I have become acquainted with through telephone conversations, correspondence, and now with e-mail. In some cases, I have traveled great distances to see a particular individual who has kept mind-boggling experiences tucked away. Today, children and grandchildren are also getting into the act as they also dig through their own heritages.

There has been a bit of variety for the readership. There have been two or three four-pagers, some 12 pages and the Dec 84 issue had 16 pages. After this, someone suggested I continue that size and also a monthly.

There are a couple of shortcomings I must confess because they may prove to be a source of frustration for you. So, here goes:

The proper indexing of pages was a bit spasmodic for about the first ten years, in large measure because I was doing all of the work of pasting up pages for the printer after the type was set. I didn't always get page numbers on, although I did get the volume number and issue number on the front page. So, I developed a scheme to index those pages that needed it. You will see in a bottom corner a series of numbers which are volume # - issue # - page #.

The index includes a series of numbers for all items, covering all issues: volume – issue, page, month-year.

This became necessary, I felt, because of the problems over lack of page numbers, and was also influenced by the fact that I had done the indexing over two widely separated periods. These two projects then had to be brought together in some meaningful way. The early indexing was also influenced by the lack of storage space on earlier computers, forcing me to compile the indexes in sections.

The other problem for many of you will be that I only indexed pilots' names in crew pictures, which have appeared for many years. There are some pilots who appeared in pictures with different crews, and on a few occasions, I repeated the same crew pictures on later dates.

My suspicion is that once a person has completed indexing a book and looks back at it, there is a fleeting moment when you really want to start all over and do it again, doing it “right” the second time. You then quickly regain your sanity and don’t begin.

For the editor, it has been a long and joyous adventure in bringing the 306th Echoes to you. We don’t know how long we will be privileged to continue it. Only God knows.

I also want to thank each of you who has been a faithful reader, each of you who has been able to contribute pictures, stories and ideas; and I would mention two non-306’ers who helped immensely, my younger brother who as an electrical engineer had access to a rare bit of technical data which the 8th AF used and which I have never seen mentioned elsewhere, and to my third son who found a piece on the Internet that became a delightful page 1 story for us.

Surely, all of you will agree that the 306th Bombardment Group had within its ever-changing roster sensational and patriotic men who gave of themselves unstintingly.

INTRODUCTION TO PILOTS, NAVIGATORS, AND BOMBARDIERS LISTINGS

Russell Strong and a team of dedicated volunteers created a comprehensive list of all the pilots, navigators, and bombardiers associated with the 306th Bomb Group. Recognizing that while everyone in the 306th played a vital role, the pilots were essential to much of the group's core activities, the project began by compiling an extensive list of every pilot who flew with the 306th. Following that, additional lists of navigators, bombardiers, and radar operators were developed. These lists were published as a feature in three issues of Echoes. The outcome of that project has now been retyped and formatted to improve readability.

TERMS AND ABBREVIATIONS USED IN THIS INDEX

The following terms and abbreviations are used in the Pilot, Navigator, and Bombardier listings.

ANOXIA	Complete deprivation or absence of oxygen supply to the body's tissues or organs. During World War II, long-range bombers like the B-17 Flying Fortress routinely flew combat missions at altitudes between 20,000 and 30,000 feet to evade enemy anti-aircraft flak and interceptors. At these heights, the atmospheric pressure drops significantly. Without supplemental oxygen, the lack of pressure prevents oxygen from entering the bloodstream, causing "altitude anoxia: and rendering airmen unconscious within minutes.
CASEY JONES	An aerial mapping project of Western Europe and Northern Africa, The Casey Jones project was initiated due to the lack of adequate maps and charts, which had caused serious difficulties for the American ground forces during the European campaign. The 306 th Bomb Group was assigned to complete the project.
DOW	Died of Wounds
EVADDEE	Any soldier or airman stranded behind enemy lines who avoided German capture and was successfully returned to the United Kingdom
HOSP	Hospitalized
INJ/D	Died of injuries
INJ-DIED	Died of injuries
INTERNEED	During World War II, Air Force personnel whose aircraft landed or crashed in a neutral country
K AT SEA	Killed at sea
K-AUTO	Killed in automobile accident
K-CRASH	Killed in Crash
KIA	Killed in Action
K-ON GROUND	Killed on ground
K-TAKEOFF	Killed during takeoff
MIA	Missing in Action
POW	Prisoner of War

TO HOSP	Hospitalized
TOUR	Early in the war in England during World War II, a combat tour for heavy bomber crews initially constituted 25 combat missions over Nazi-occupied Europe. This was later raised to 30 to 35 missions as the survival odds for aircrews theoretically improved with long-range fighter escorts. Once a crew completed the required number of missions, they were eligible to be rotated back to the United States as instructors or reassigned. Early in the campaign (i.e., 1943) the odds of a flier surviving to complete this 25-mission tour were only about one in five. Dr. Thurman Shuller (Flight Surgeon for the 306th Bomb Group) campaigned to establish a capped limit of 20 missions, where no official limit previously existed. He cited severe operational fatigue and hopelessness among the aircrews as a reason for a mandatory cap of 20 missions. However, General Ira Eaker (Commander of the Eighth Air Force) did not grant that request; however, Shuller's advocacy directly prompted the command to establish the 25-mission combat tour limit. This ruling provided aircrews with a defined goal, drastically improving morale and survivability expectations.
TRANS	Transferred to another assignment
WIA	Wounded in Action
WOUNDED	Injured during combat mission

PILOTS

The following listings of 306th pilots, by squadrons, is an attempt to clarify information and to obtain new data on individuals listed. This list may not be complete, or necessarily correct. Pilots who served with the 306th, but were transferred out before the unit left the States have been omitted. The list was closed off at the end of April 1945.

The listing shows them alphabetically, followed by whether the individual was a pilot or co-pilot, or moved from co-pilot to pilot, if this is known. Then is shown the best available date on which the person joined the 306th, usually the date of the Special Orders assigning them to a squadron. The squadron is usually that of their first assignment.

There follows a column showing the date they left the 306th, whether shot down or killed, or transferred, or completed a tour. The data may be either the date of their final mission or the date of orders transferring them to a replacement depot.

If there are two zeroes in a date that means the historian did not know the date. Especially dates of departure may have a bit of guesswork in them.

Please review your own data carefully, note that of other crew members. If you can provide better information, please inform the historian. If you can provide Special Orders which you received for any reason while stationed at Thurleigh, please send along copies.

Note: The above introductory information to this section appeared in Echoes as a preface to the listing that follows. The following PILOTS listing, which originally appeared in the January 1988 issue of Echoes, was also appended to the original 306 Echoes 1975-2000 Index.

BOMBARDIERS

This is the last group of flying officers of the 306th to be listed in 306th Echoes. Previous lists of pilots, copilots, and navigators has enabled the editor to make a considerable number of changes and corrections in listings. The Bombardier list has been compiled with great assistance from Ralph Bordner, himself a 368th bomb dropper. This has resulted in more names being added to the list. Despite these efforts, there are still blanks to be found, and there are still dates to be verified and to be brought closer in reality than simply a year and a month listing. If you can be of assistance, please notify the editor. For instance, the date of arrival of a bombardier may not be shown. But, if you were on his crew perhaps you can help us get a bit closer. This occasional feature of Echoes will be continued as lists can be compiled (we've done the easy ones!). Presently the historian is engaged on completing data on a great number of men. If you receive a card requesting data, please respond as quickly and as accurately as you can.

Note: Note: The above introductory information to this section appeared in Echoes as a preface to the listing that follows. The following BOMBARDIERS, which originally appeared in the July 1989 issue of Echoes, was also appended to the original 306 Echoes 1975-2000 Index.

NAVIGATORS

Continuing our feature of listing 306th personnel, this month we highlight navigators and radio operators. The listing by squadrons is alphabetical, and includes all of those persons whom the historian has been able to identify.

One of the reasons for running this listing is to fill out data, to connect squadron assignments, and to add to it names which may have been omitted for some now unknown reason.

If you have additions, deletions or corrections, please send them to the historian, Russell A. Strong, 5323 Cheval Pl., Charlotte, NC 28205.

The first column shows the date of arrival with the group, usually obtained from Special Orders. However, in the early days and even throughout the history of the group, such dates may have been obtained from squadron diaries. The second column lists the date of departure: KIS, shot down, transferred, or completion of tour. Where any of the dates show a "00" the historian has been unable to come up with anything accurate.

If you have pertinent information, particularly Special Orders from the Group, Squadron, or some other source, please send copies along to be added to the Group collection of such papers. If you were not a navigator, but have information pertaining to one or more navigators and can assist in the completion of this task, please contact the historian.

Note: Note: The above introductory information to this section appeared in Echoes as a preface to the listing that follows. The following NAVIGATORS listing, which originally appeared in the October 1988 issue of Echoes, was also appended to the original 306 Echoes 1975-2000 Index.
